GULL'S EYE VIEW

Tom Randall: Absolutely. The food is much better. The selection and quality are improving.

Sean Hull: The food changed for the better. The assistant manager seems to care about the students and how they eat.

Has the Dining Hall food improved?

Paula Chisley: Yes, there is a definite improvement in the quality of the food served in the Dining Hall.

Laura Webb: It is different from last year. Some of it is better, some is worse.

Toni A. Randolph: Yes. I believe that the dining hall's food has been enhanced. The meat is more tender; the vegetables are crisper; the bread is fresher; and the range of foods offered is wider (the addition of the salad bar and snack bar).

EDITORIAL

Dear Student Body:

Well, it's that time again to bring up that subject we all know and love (no, I'm not referring to housing) — it's apathy. For those people who don't know the meaning of the word, I'll tell you. An apathetic person is one who shows a lack of concern, a lack of interest.

I think it's been a "tradition" for most Salisbury State College students to be, well... lazy. To some students school is just a place to get together with friends, party, and to basically have a good time. Due to contrary belief, some students come here to further their education and get a good base for their future. These are the type of students who usually get involved in extra curricular activities.

Now, I know what you're wondering. "What the hell is he getting at?" I'm getting at that all too familiar apathy which plagues The Flyer. Yes, it's come down to the point where it's getting almost too tough to produce that "ad-zine" (and that's all it will be if some things don't change). The present Flyer staff busts its buns every week to get stories, write them, type them, and lay them out on paper. Not to mention financing, photographing, distributing, soliciting advertisements, and the lay out of those advertisements and the rest of the paper. Though plagued with machine breakdowns, the first issue came out on time (thanks to Gains Hawkins, Dean Williamson, and Tim Ragan — The Printery).

If you didn't notice, the past issue and this one are a little on the skimpy side. This issue doesn't even contain a cover story. No... it's not the editor's fault. It seems no one wants to write for the paper anymore. Stories in all sections of the paper are covered mainly by the editor of that section. The Flyer staff, at first, thought recognition was enough for reporters. Obviously it was not — we ran into this problem last semester. So we decided to pay writers for their stories if they were printed in the paper (and they usually are) — $5 for a regular story, $10 for cover. And as that goes, it doesn't seem to do much more to solve our problem. And that's as high as we go with our payments. We have a budget just like any other campus organization and we're definitely not Reader's Digest.

The Flyer relies on student volunteerism and the "pride of serving your campus." If this predicament carries on much longer, The Flyer will turn into a paper no larger than the Salisbury State College News. Sure it will contain some more photos and most definitely advertisements. But what about copy? Our editors don't have enough time each week to write ten well-written articles for each issue. With four more issues at hand, our future looks grim.

Apathetic feelings spread quickly — if it comes down to it, The Flyer's office can become a haven for former employees. We'll have to rely on your voluminous demand for posters (yes — you guessed it — satire). Let's hope this never comes true.

Sincerely,

Chris Barkell

Letters To The Editor

Freshman Orientation Trip

Dear Dr. Bellevue:

This year, as last, I went on the Freshman Orientation trip to Algonquin Provincial Park in Canada. Actually, since I am on sabbatical this year, I was a last minute replacement for an injured faculty member. I believe a few comments are in order:

1. On both trips the planning, organization, and leadership were superb. Both Joe Gilbert and Dave Ganoe put in long hours of preparation far beyond the call of normal duty. They are the glue that holds this program together and are to be congratulated for their efforts and successes.
2. The faculty selected have both given and gained a great deal. They've given of their time, efforts and care. They have gained in many ways, most notably in their understanding of their students, the wilderness, and each other.

3. The students have been through an experience of a lifetime. They come from everywhere, in all shapes, sizes and backgrounds. They are fairly typical of the student body as a whole and have the same interests and concerns. They learn of the wilderness, of college, and most importantly, of themselves. They come in tentative, unsure of themselves and frightened of college — a new experience, a breaking point in their lives from an established thirteen year routine. They are not sure they can cut it, personally, socially, or academically. When they first stare out across that huge lake or start down that long, rough portage with a heavy pack that they are not
4. The orientation materials have been carefully prepared and are meticulously presented to all students. You have to be there and see it to believe it. They actually get involved, asking reasonable questions and even going beyond the normal scope of classroom orientation groups. The peer counsellors (a truly great bunch) help out a lot, interjecting comments, probing, really putting life into the presentations. Small group sure they can hack either. But within a week they develop the confidence they need. They know they can do it. They know they can make it as part of a group. And they know that the college they have selected cares about them and can really do the job. A different kid walks off that trail at the end of the week. They are truly oriented to succeed in college.

I wasn't going to go this year because I thought other faculty could gain from the experience and I had my sabbatical on my mind. It's a lot of work and timed at an awkward time of the year. But I would go again and I know most of the students would, too. It is truly a valuable experience.

MACPA Careers Day

Practicing CPAs will discuss career opportunities and the realities of working in the accounting field with college students from across the state in a program to be held Saturday, October 12 at Towson State University. The 13th Annual Accounting Careers Day is sponsored by the Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Topics to be discussed at this popular program include preparing to take the CPA exam, career opportunities, first year in public accounting, job interviews in accounting and MAS & accounting computer applications.

The program will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m. in the University Union Center, Chesapeake Rooms, Third Floor. After a free luncheon at noon, students will have an opportunity to talk with representatives from area CPA firms and examination review courses. Free literature will also be available, including a listing of public accounting firms interested in hiring recent college graduates.

Interested persons should contact the Maryland Association of CPAs, (301) 296-6250. Although advance registration is not required, please contact MACPA by October 4 so that projected attendance can be made.

Environmental Lecture

Salisbury State College will present the second program in its 1985-86 Environmental Lecture Series, "Pollution of the Bay: 20th Century Man on Trial," with a lecture by Dr. William H. Aiken, Jr., professor of Philosophy at Chatham College in Pittsburgh.

Entitled "The Hands-Off Policy: Ethics and Environment," Dr. Aiken's talk will explore the ethical issues involved in resource use and abuse. It will be presented at 8 p.m. on Thursday, October 10, in Caruthers Hall Auditorium on campus.

On Monday, November 10, at 8:00 p.m. in Caruthers Auditorium, Dr. Eugene Cronin, scientist and authority on the bay, will discuss "What must be done to Save the Bay?"

Sometime during this semester, the Honorable Paul Sarbanes, U.S. senator from Maryland, will speak on the topic "The Bay: Political Process and Federal Environmental Legislation." The time, date and location will be announced at a later time.

If additional information is needed concerning this series, please call the College Center at 543-6100.

Rifle Club

An organizational meeting for anyone interested in forming a Rifle Club and Match Team will be held on Thursday, October 17, 1985 at 5:00 p.m. in the Chesapeake Room of the College Center. For additional information call Tom Knapp at 543-6296.

EVERGREEN Yearbook

The EVERGREEN Yearbook is in operation again, located in Tawes 107-C. Their phone number is 543-6186. The editors for the 85-86 Yearbook are Karen Carlson and Katie Winkeljohn.

Further information about the Yearbook will be provided through campus media. The organization is looking forward to publishing a Yearbook everyone will be proud of.

Volunteers Needed

You can help in the fight against heart disease and gain "eye catching" experience for your resume. The American Heart Association seeks creative writers and/or health advocates to volunteer their writing talent 1-3 hours a week. Feature stories may be on the subject of heart disease, diet and nutrition, smoking, high blood pressure, American Heart Association community programs, and many other topics. Pamphlets and literature may be supplied to assist in these assignments.

This position presents a unique opportunity for job seekers to gain valuable "on the job" experience while helping a worthwhile organization.

For more information, please call the American Heart Association at 742-4324, in Salisbury or 820-7750 (collect) in Easton.

OKTOBERFEST '85

The SSC German Club presents OKTOBERFEST '85 featuring traditional German folk dances, the SSC Oompah Band, German food and near-beer. The OKTOBERFEST will be held from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 30 between the Dining Hall and the Student Center. Come out and eat, drink and be merry, German style!

College Gallery

The College Gallery will present "Image Before My Eyes" at 7:30 p.m. in the Caruthers Hall Auditorium on October 21.

Directed by Joshua Waletzky, this highly acclaimed film of pre-Holocaust Polish-Jewish life draws upon archival film footage, still photographs and interviews with holocaust survivors to document this complex, now vanished culture.

The event is free and open to the public.

SNEA Meeting

The SNEA (Student National Education Association) will hold its second meeting on Monday, October 14 at 7:30 p.m. in CH 167. All education majors (elementary and secondary) are encouraged to attend. This year's SNEA promises to be a very active group, offering a variety of leisure and professional activities. All students planning to attend this meeting should bring their checks for $15.50 (national dues) and for $10.75 (sweat-shirt; not required).

Student Teaching

Students planning to register for student teaching in the Spring 1986 semester should attend one of the application meetings scheduled by the Education Department. Application forms will be distributed, and responsibilities and procedures will be discussed. Prior to attending one of the meetings students should make sure to check their eligibility for student teaching with their advisor.

Meeting Dates: Wednesday, October 23, 1985 & Thursday, October 24, 1985

3:30 p.m. — Caruthers 162

Applications will not be accepted at any other time, so students should make sure to attend. Questions about the application process should be directed to Mr. Alvah Constantine, Director of Field Experiences, CH - 150.

Dance Convention

On Friday, October 18, at 8 p.m. at the Carousel Hotel in Ocean City, the Maryland Association of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance is sponsoring "Maryland Dances".

Dancers and dance companies from all over Maryland will assemble at this statewide convention to perform some of their best works.

Admission is free.

On Monday, October 21, at 7 p.m. the film, "Marcel Marceau" will be shown at Maggs PAC Dance Studio. Admission is free to see the world's greatest mime as he crystallizes the art of silence on film.

S.S.C. Theatre

Salisbury State Theatre will produce Antigone by Sophocles and the University of Maryland Eastern Shore will stage Medea by Euripides. Dr. Andrew Hepburn, director of theatre at Salisbury State College, and Professor Della-Dameron Johnson, director of Theatre at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, have planned this joint undertaking to allow students in theatre, as well as the larger community, to gain a deeper understanding of the nature of Greek tragedy.

Antigone opens October 18 at the Holloway Hall "On Stage" Theatre with evening performances, October 24, 25, 26 at 8:00 p.m. and a 2:00 p.m. matinee on October 20.

For tickets, call the Salisbury State Theatre box office (24-hour answering service) at 543-6228. Adult tickets are $4.00, senior citizens are $2.00.

Medea opens at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore on October 11 with subsequent performances October 12, 14, and 15. For reservations and information call 651-2200 ext. 612.

Prevention Resource Center Opens Doors

BY WAYNE ACKERSON

Two years ago, Fairfax County, Va. resident Joanne Ogden went to work here on the eastern shore in an alcoholism treatment center. Soon, she decided that there needed to be a larger organization to deal with the problems related to drug and alcohol abuse. "Traditionally," Ogden says "The counties had kept to themselves their work on alcoholism and drug abuse... They fought any attempts to band together on the subject."

Through hard work and several shore-wide panel discussions, Ogden and various county health officials set up, in January of this year, what is known as the Lower Shore Prevention Resource Center for Alcohol and Drug Abuse. The office was set up on campus in June and opened August 21st.

The center is supported through grants from the Salisbury State Foundation and is governed by a board made up of three members each from the counties of Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico, and Worcester, plus three faculty members; Mr. Whaley, from the history department, Mrs. McGlinchey, from Med-

Tech, and Mr. Fields, the assistant Dean of Students. Joanne Ogden was eventually hired as the director of the Resource Center.

Serving the community as well as the campus itself, the center has four main goals: To make available films, tapes, and free literature for use of schools, businesses, churches, and civic groups; to make available speakers to groups regarding any aspect of substance abuse or related subjects; to sponsor training programs for special interest groups such as teachers, employers, and clergy; and finally to mail out a quarterly newsletter to help citizens become better informed about local and statewide prevention activities, latest research data, and current issues in substance abuse. Also, Ogden would like to stress that the center can be a good place for faculty of all disciplines to get information, as well as for students doing reports on alcohol and drug abuse. While the center does not itself provide for counseling it serves as a reference point for alcohol and drug abuse counseling.

London In January Via SSC

The best time to travel to Britain is not June, July, or August, according to some faculty members at Salisbury State College. As a matter of record last summer was relatively miserable in Britain. Major cities like London, Edinborough, and York were glutted with tourists. Hotel rooms and the best theatre tickets were scarce because of the crowds, and the summer was unusually wet. Moreover, during the prime travel season airline tickets and hotel rates are at a premium.

For the economy-minded, the best time to see Britain is during the month of January on a group tour. Once again in January of 1986 the departments of English and Nursing at Salisbury State College will sponsor travel courses to London. The cost of travel (including airline tickets and bus transfers) from Salisbury to London and two weeks in a comfortable London hotel will be under $750, — competitive with what one might expect to pay for airline tickets alone during the peak summer months. The College trip will offer basic accommodations in London at group rates, as well as sightseeing tours of London landmarks and optional day-trips, by bus and by rail, to major cities outside London, such as Salisbury, Canterbury, Windsor, and Stratford-upon-Avon. The cost of these optional day-trips in the past has averaged from ten to fifteen dollars each.

The main purpose of the College tour is to offer courses in London: English 300: "British Literature and Culture," Nursing 457: "Cultural Considerations in Nursing," and English 490, a field study course that can be taken for graduate credit. The courses will be taught by Professors

Edna Quinn of the Nursing Department and J.M. Welsh of the English Department — both of whom arranged the London courses offered in January of 1985. An organizational meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday, October 16th, at 4:30 p.m. in Devilbiss Auditorium on the Salisbury State Campus for those interested in the trip and the courses.

"Over the past two years nearly 150 people have traveled with us to England, Scotland, and Wales," notes Jim Welsh of the English Department, who served as one of the tour leaders on three of the four trips the College has arranged, "and so far the response has been quite favorable." The January trips provide structure for those who want it, for those who need direction, but they also offer

For the HEALTH of it

Health Behaviors of the Month

At-risk: activities that increase one's risk of illness or infirmity.

Self-esteem: opinion of one's self.

Peer pressure: mental force exerted, either internally or externally upon an individual to conform to group practice.

Individuals who are less likely to succumb to peer pressure or become involved in at-risk behaviors because of their high self-esteem can be detected by their somewhat unorthodox behaviors. Examples of these individuals and their behaviors are as follows:

Attending a keg party with a quart of milk and a box of Almost Home Chocolate Chip Cookies.

Being a cute female and giving a presentation on contraception to 30 SAE brothers.

Asking an instructor, who also happens to be department chairperson and your advisor, not to smoke in your class.

Getting picked up for a first date by the BMOC in his 300 SX convertible and buckling up - when he hasn't.

Walking from the shower to your dorm room naked when you're 20 pounds overweight.

Telling a rugby player who is offering you a joint, "Only dopes smoke dope."

Going to Blackwell Library on a Thursday night to study (when the A&P lab exam isn't even until Monday morning).

Being a 5'2", 110 lb. weakling male and saying to a 6'4" 350 lb. tackle who's had one too many to drink, "You say you want your car keys? NO WAY, Jose!"

Being a female who stops and asks, "Do you have a discharge, burning during urination, odor, itching red or pink bumps, abdominal pain or tenderness, fever, enlarged lymph nodes, or a rash on your chest, back, arms, legs or in the genital area?" Then says, "Use a condom anyway."

Being a college student and in the middle of the college center at high noon, stopping to chat with the nurse from the Colposcopy clinic (or from the Planned Parenthood clinic).

Increase your self-esteem; resist peer pressure to conform. Be yourself and enjoy it.

Computer Club

The Salisbury State College Computer Club under the leadership of officers Jerry Kensington (President), Alan Shatzler (Vice-President), Vincent Goldsmith (Secretary/Treasurer), and sponsors Mr. Defino and Mr. Otto, have it as their goal "to promote and broaden the backgrounds and experiences of the student body in the areas of computing and related fields."

The main activity this year for the club will be computer dating service, starting sometime in the near future. This service may be the primary fundraiser for the club.

The club is open to any interested students and faculty members. It meets periodically. Contact the computer science department for any further information.

Rape Prevention

The Salisbury State Program Board in conjunction with the Department of Public Safety and the Health Education Office is sponsoring Frederic Storaska and his rape prevention program, "How to Say No to a Rapist and Survive."

In the summer of 1984 Frederic Storaska broke up a gang rape of an eleven year old girl. This incident was to ultimately change how we think and approach "Rape and Its Prevention."

Combining his Karate and psychology background, Storaska developed a unique methodology of rape prevention. He replaced fear with knowledge, guilt with understanding, and doubts with alternatives. He even developed an approach to teach these skills and attitudes which has been enthusiastically received by audiences every where.

In the past twenty years Storaska has presented his program through lectures to over a million students at over a thousand of colleges and universities. He has authored a book and a movie that have become authoritative sources of rape prevention for the United States Department of Defense, U.S. Justice Department, National Crime Prevention Institute, and hundreds of law enforcement agencies throughout the world.

The internationally acclaimed rape-prevention program begins at 8:00 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium on Tuesday, October 29, 1985.

Antigone

Salisbury State College Theatre opens its season with Sophocles' Antigone. "So what!" you say? "Who wants to see a 2600 year old play anyway?" As a conscientious student you should not miss one of the greatest classics of all times. When asked why this fifth century play makes "good theatre" for Salisbury State College students, Paul Lewis, the leading man in the play, and a fellow student, responds, "It is a way to learn history. It brings about self-awareness." Kris Lococo, the leading lady in the play, also a student, answers the same questions explaining, "the classics are the groundposts of theatre today." She goes on to say that the play suggests to people today that there are principles worth dying for. Lococo says that her character, Antigone, has taught her integrity. Lewis' character, King Creon, has taught him the consequences of not practicing integrity. Lewis says that if Creon were a leader in the twentieth century "we all would be victims of nuclear oblivion!"

As students at a liberal arts college, Antigone, as are all of the classics, is relevant to our society. As Lewis has determined, "the play deals with human nature, which does not change."

Dr. Andrew Hepburn constructs masks for Antigone with Alyssa Marsh and Lori Beste.

The College Center, the Music Department and the Faculty Cultural Events committee of Salisbury State College will present a master class and piano recital by Thomas Mastroianni on October 14 and 15, 1985.

The topic of the workshop, to be held in Caruthers Hall Auditorium on October 14 from 3:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., is Learning and Memory. Dr. Mastroianni, a recognized expert in this field, will discuss modern theories of memory and offer practical tips for memorization that will prove helpful to teachers, students and performers.

On Tuesday, October 15, at 8:00 p.m. in Caruthers Hall Auditorium, Dr. Mastroianni will present a piano recital, performing the works of Beethoven, Liszt, and Brahms.

Gulls Look To New Jersey For Future Foes

from five yards out for the game's first score.

The football team upped their record to 2-1 by beating state-rival Frostburg St., 23-11, at Wicomico Co. Stadium Saturday night. It was the second consecutive win for Salisbury after dropping their opener.

Sopomore Bill Maure led the Gulls with a record setting three field goals from 25, 37 and 44 yards. The previous record was two held by three other people. "Mauer just had an exceptional game kicking the ball," said Sea Gull head coach Mike McGlinchey.

But again, penalties caused Salisbury to move backwards and the Gulls had to settle for Maure's first field goal of the night from 25 yards out.

Things started good for Salisbury as Joey Slaughter took the opening kickoff 20 yards to put the Gulls at their own 46 yard line. But two motion penalties on the offense moved Salisbury backwards and Kevin White was forced to punt.

Maurer added another field goal in the second quarter from 37 yards out for a 13-0 Sea Gull lead. Right before the half, Coppa scored from a yard out for a 20-0 halftime lead after Maurer's extra-point.

In the second half Frostburg continued to be unable to move the ball with any consistency while SSC seemed content to sit on its 20 point lead. The two teams exchanged field goals before Frostburg got a touchdown and a two point conversion late in the game for the 23-11 final. It was the Gull's tenth win out of 13 tries, including four straight, over Frostburg.

Salisbury first win of the year came at Sea Gull stadium over Randolph-Macon 42-13. Last year Salisbury traveled to Ashland, Va. to play the Yellow Jackets and trailed 33-0 in the second quarter but eventually won 34-33.

This year's rematch was hardly as exciting. Salisbury scored a touchdown everytime they had the ball in the first half except when time ran out before intermission.

Junior John Harris scored from 20 and seven yards out in the first period on Saturday and wound up with 88 yards rushing to lead the Gulls. Humenik also scored twice for SSC while Kevin White and Frank Oliver each added one score. All six of Salisbury's touchdowns came on the ground, but that's to say quarterback Robb Disbennett didn't have a fine afternoon. Disbennett, who was questionable during the week because of a shoulder injury, completed 16 of 21 passes for 201 yards with no interceptions. Offensively, he led the Gulls to 389 total yards. Defensively, Salisbury State had four sacks and four turnovers. The SSC defense unit led by Mike Geesaman, who had one of the four sacks, three of which were for losses of 11 yards, held Randolph-Macon to just 201 total yards.

Salisbury is seemingly following last year's script when the Gulls lost their opener to C.W. Post and then won six straight with the first three over Randolph-Macon, Frostburg St. and University of the District of Columbia.

Salisbury plays the Glassboro State "Profs" this Saturday for the first of three consecutive road games in New Jersey. The Gulls and Profs have played each year since 1973. Glassboro leads the series, 8-4, but Salisbury has won the last two including a 34-14 win last year.

Salisbury's secondary will be tested by Glassboro passing connection of quarterback Larry Lewis to wide receiver Mike Yorker. Glassboro, who was 4-5 in '84, also returns 13 starters and 34 letterman to give them good depth and experience.

Salisbury's next home game is Homecoming, Nov. 2 against Ramapo at Sea Gull Stadium.

Volleyball Returns After Years Absence

Peggy Troiano, head coach of the Salisbury State women's volleyball feels optimistic about this year's team.

"We have a good nucleus of veterans returning from the squads of past years including the club team that formed last year," she said. "We will have to prove our existence since the program was dropped as a varsity sport.

Upon the return of the sport on the varsity level, the Sea Gulls split their season opener in a tri-match at UMES. Salisbury defeated Norfolk State 15-10, 13-15, and 15-13 while UMES defeated the Gulls 15-12 and 15-10.

"The girls played extremely well for the first match," said Troiano. "In the match against NSU we really hustled and played good defense."

The Sea Gulls have a combination of players that will assume dual responsibilities on the court as hitter/setter specialists. Although, experience is needed by some of the newcomers, the squad has a lot of depth and plenty of enthusiasm.

Five veterans return to the team including the lone senior, Lynise DeVance. "DeVance will lead the offense with her experience, knowledge and skill techniques," said Troiano.

Juniors Elaine Allnut and Joan Sudec are both returning and will control the offense and defense according to Troiano. Sophomores Brenda Bowlin and Kim Dawson, will contribute both offensively and defensively.

Karen Hammer, a sophomore, transfer student joining the team with all-around skill and ability, is expected to be a tremendous asset as a middle attacker. Two players, sophomore Theresa Kelly and freshman Phyllis Coleman, are both getting off to slow starts due to injuries.

"We are looking forward to facing our strong opponents such as Glassboro State, Notre Dame and the University of D.C.," Said Troiano.

SSC split a tri-match St. Mary's, but Troiano thought her team played well at all times.

"We got outstanding play from Brenda Bowlin serving the ball," she said. "Lynise DeVance and Nikki Darn contributed both offensively and defensively. We are also getting good play from the bench."

On October 26 the Gulls will host the Salisbury State Invitational with three other teams involved in a round robin tournament. Messiah will face the Sea Gulls at Home on October 31.

Women's Soccer Comes Of Age

BY RICK GILMAN

After a year of organizing and practicing, a S.S.C. Women's soccer team is finally going to take the field in inter-collegiate competition. Salisbury will play at the University of Delaware on November 2nd for the first match of the club's history.

The idea of a women's soccer club came from Athletics Director Louis Marciante who hopes to incorporate women's soccer with the rest of S.S.C.'s athletic programs by next spring.

This idea was carried out by current club President Jennifer Quinn who began to organize the team in the fall of 1984. Paul Zimmerman had taken on the task of serving as coach to help the team's progress, but due to other responsibilities Zimmerman was forced to step down last spring and the fate of the club seemed in jeopardy.

Quinn expects to add three more matches this semester. "I'm going to get three more games," she said, "I'm determined." Possible opponents include Anne Arundel Community College, Mt. St. Mary's, St. Mary's and Essex Community College. The team has two scrimmages scheduled against a recreational men's league team and the junior varsity boy's soccer team from James M. Bennett.

The club is funded by the Intramurals Department which receives its money from the student activity fee that all full-time S.S.C. students pay. The club was given $341 for the 1984-85 academic year.

Additional funds were raised by the players in a 50-50 raffle which earned $250 along with 2 bake sales which raised another $95. In addition, all participants, pay $7.50 in dues per semester.

Funds are used to pay referees and to cover traveling expenses. Gerry DiBartolo, the men's soccer coach, also serves as the clubs advisor and has furnished the team with men's soccer jerseys no longer in use and access to soccer balls, both without cost to the club.

Other club officials are Christine Lenard, Vice President and Kelley Schoonover and Lea Johns, Secretary/treasurer.

Anyone interested in joining the women's soccer club should contact one of the coaches, executive officers or stop by one of the practices held Monday, 4:30 p.m., in the athletic field by Tawes or Tuesday and Thursday, 4:30 p.m., at the Intramural Complex.

S.S.C. Flattened In Flatland Final

BY RICK GILMAN

A rugby extravaganza was held here at S.S.C. on Saturday, September 28th with Salisbury hosting the first annual Fall Flatlands Tournament. George Mason won the tournament by beating Salisbury 14-4 in the championship game.

Salisbury got into the final in strong fashion. It pounded Towson, 28-4, in their opener and then shut-out U.M.B.C. in the semi-finals, 24-0.

"We finally played as a team and stomped U.M.B.C. and Towson St., but you could tell it was George Mason's day," said team captain Bart

Talbert. "They dominated Maryland, who was National Champion Runner-up last year, for the second week in a row and were looking to avenge last year's loss at our hands here at S.S.C....things will be different when we travel to play them November 2nd."

Ted Baines, Mark Keely, Bob Ott, Godfrey Ryz, and Rick Schraf all scored for Salisbury in the tournament, along with Scott Dean who made several kicks throughout the day.

Although losing to U.M.B.C. last week, coach Grace Lamboni got solid play from Stephanie Cooke and Debbie Diedrick as both players won their single's matches and then teamed together to win a doubles match.

The loss puts the Gulls record at 0-6. Salisbury plays today at home against Loyola and will be at the State Tournament at Mt. St. Mary's this weekend.

Nine former outstanding performers from Salisbury State College's athletic history will become charter members of the S.S.C. Sports Hall of Fame on Friday, November 1st at the Salisbury Sheraton Inn.

Joyce Bennett Allen, Louise Holbrook Bassett, Barbara Street Davis, Sandy Weaver Greer, Andy Hall, Ben Maggs, Phil Slacum, Goldy

Tyler and Alethea Whitney will be honored during special Hall of Fame induction ceremonies which will begin at 7 p.m.

The charter members will also be honored on Saturday during festivities at the Homecoming football game at Sea Gull Stadium when S.S.C. plays host to Ramapo College at 1:30 p.m.

Robert Novak was named the SSC soccer player of the week as he helped the team win two matches. The sophomore had an assist in each win, but also helped out in a lot of other ways.

"Robert played extremely well this week," said head coach Gerry DiBartolo, who is now 26-26-2 in his coaching career. "He played all but six minutes in the two matches at very midfield position and was responsible for the offensive starts. He excelled both offensively and defensively."

Salisbury shut-out both St. Mary's, 4-0, and Mt. St. Mary's, 2-0, to put its record at 4-1-1. The Gulls have five consecutive home games scheduled starting this Saturday, October 12, against Roanoke.

Field Hockey Ranked Tenth In The Nation

The Salisbury State field hockey team, the only ranked team at SSC, won the second annual Sunfest Field Hockey Tournament which they hosted on Sunday as they defeated Indiana University of Pa. 3-1 and then won the title game over Drew University 3-1.

All six Sea Gull goals were scored by junior Robin Adair. She now has 15 goals on the season for Salisbury in just seven games.

"Robin has been a tremendous asset to our team this season," said head coach Karen Weaver, whose team is now 5-2 and ranked 10th in the nation. "She set a tournament scoring record today."

In the first game, Salisbury had 36 shots on goal while Indiana had just four. Terri Timmons had an assist on the second Adair goal which broke a 1-1 deadlock at the half.

Adair again broke a 1-1 halftime tie in the championship game as teammate Stacy Stem was credited with an assist. SSC outshot Drew, which came into the contest 11th ranked in the nation, 30-16. Sea Gull goalkeeper Karen Stockton had one save in the first game and eight in the last.

"This is the first tournament we've won since I've been here," said Weaver, who is in her fourth year as coach. "It was nice to beat Drew for the title. We've never beaten them, but we always play them close."

SSC finished ahead of Christopher Newport 29-36 to take the seven team meet.

The Gulls followed tournament victory with a 9-0 pounding of UMBC at home to raise their record to 6-2.

Salisbury, who finished ranked fifth last year, hopes to make the NCAA playoffs for the second time in its history. The Gulls went last year and, despite the fact that seven out of the 11 starters are gone from '84's team, have a good chance to get in again.

Other SSC runners were: Greg Widenhouse, who placed fifth with a 26:45 time; Steve Tiller, ninth at 27:51; Krah Plunkert, tenth at 27:57; Kevin Hanger, twelfth at 28:08 and Mike Healy, thirteenth at 28:15.

Final team results were: SSC 29, CNC 36, Methodist 92, Norfolk St. 110, Hampton 127, St. Andrews 155, and Naval Apprentice 155.

Salisbury will compete in the Frostburg Invitational on Saturday, October 5.

Although unable to compete as a team because of lack of runners, the women's cross country team had some good individual times in the women's portion of the CNC meet. Thora Westre placed sixth overall with a 20:58 time. Nancy Gugerty placed 17th at 22:47 and Kathy Flood was 25th at 28:06.

The team will compete in the Frostburg Invitational on Saturday, also.
